

South East Asia: A Multidisciplinary Journal

Review Guidelines

- Please focus on the book's argument. Avoid lengthy blow-by-blow descriptions of the book's content.
- If you quote from the book, or refer to a section, please mention which page or page numbers (e.g. pp. 3-4, p. 23).
- Please write about the book's subject in general, perhaps referring to its importance and how the book complements the discipline.
- Refer to the book's structure briefly, avoiding sentences such as "In Chapter 1...", or "This is followed by Chapter 2 which...", etc.
- Please give your candid opinions about the book.
- Indicate the potential readership.

Style notes

- All reviews should be preceded by full publications details in the following form:

Sites unseen: landscape and vision. Edited by Dianne Harris and D. Fairchild Ruggles. Pittsburgh: University of Pittsburgh Press, 2007. List of illustrations, preface, notes, list of contributors, and index. xv+318pp. $26.95 paper. ISBN: 978-0-8229-5959-5.

A history of the Ho Chi Minh Trail: the road to freedom. Virginia Morris and Clive A. Hills. Bangkok, Thailand: Orchid Press, 2006. List of illustrations, notes, bibliography, and index. xv + 180pp. $29.95 cloth. ISBN: 974-524-076-1.

- It is the REVIEWER'S RESPONSIBILITY to find out book prices, all authors (no et al.), ISBN numbers and so on, if they do not appear in the book to be reviewed.
- Reviews should be typed, DOUBLE-SPACED, 12pp TIMES NEW ROMAN FONT, with ample margins.
- Use italics for emphasis very sparingly and avoid excessive capitalization. For titles of books and articles, capitals should be used for the initial letter of the first word only. For the titles of journals and series, the initial letter of all principle words should be capitalized.
- ABBREVIATIONS: the initial letter of abbreviations should be typed with no full point (e.g., UK, USA, UNESCO, BBC). Abbreviations in which the last letter of the abbreviation is the same as the last letter of the word should also have no full point (e.g., Mr, St, BUT no., str., etc.).
- Use SINGLE QUOTATION MARKS AT ALL TIMES, except quotations within quotations, which should be double within single.
- NUMBERS: adopt a rule that all numbers under 10 should be spelt out in letters except where attached to a unit of quantity (e.g., 1 mm or 3 kg), and that all numbers of 10 or more should be rendered in digits except where the context makes this awkward (e.g., use spelt-out forms at the beginning of a sentence).
- REFERENCES: your review should be a general discussion of the book's subject and its importance to the discipline without referring to or citing other sources. If you find it necessary to include references they should be listed in full at the END OF THE BOOK REVIEW double-spaced, in alphabetical order and formatted AP style. Avoid direct quotations from and citations of other works. Also, please do not include parenthetical citations of published works. If you feel that someone must be cited by name, please describe his or her work in the main text of the entry rather than in a parenthetical citation, and use first and last name with no date, for example:

But Allan Pred recognizes modernism's drive towards absolute and total knowledge and, more specifically, historical positivism's quest for overarching narratives that tended to flatten multitude and plurality into the story of history, which, of course, ends in the lap of the bourgeoisie – the capitalist class.

If you do include any direct quotations, you must acknowledge the source. Material from any source including the internet must be credited.

- Please give your affiliation and name as you wish them to appear in the journal at the end of the book review RANGED RIGHT.
- It is a condition of publication of book reviews in Southeast Asia: A Multidisciplinary Journal that copyright of any review published is transferred to the Publisher. Submission of a review will be taken to imply that the author agrees that its copyright is transferred to the Publisher if and when the review is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the review, including photographic reproductions, microfilm or any other reproductions of similar nature, and translations. However, the Publisher will freely give permission to authors to reproduce reviews, or parts of reviews, for scholarly purposes.
