

Module Code		AH-4317
Module Title		Security and International Studies
Degree/Diploma		Bachelor of Arts (History and International Studies)
Type of Module		Major Option
Modular Credits		4	Total Student Workload	8 hours/week
			Contact Hours	4 hours/week
Prerequisite		None
Anti-requisite		None
Aims The module introduces to emerging theories and practices relating to security issues in international relations. Students will be able to analyse not only conventional threats to national and global security such as war and terrorism but also non-traditional security threats such as cyber war and climate change.
Learning Outcomes On successful completion of this module, a student will be expected to be able to:
Lower order:	10%	- Provide an overview of security and international studies - Describe the significance of studying security and international studies
Middle order:	10%	- Identify and discuss the existing theories of security and international studies
Higher order:	80%	- Appraise various prevailing security strategies and their effectiveness in maintaining international security - Critically analyse the strategies identified in the various national security plans. - Communicate clearly and persuasively a range of security and international issues - Advocate new policies on international security that keep to emerging issues and new power arrangement. .
Module Contents <ul style="list-style-type: none">- Introduction to Security and international studies- Conceptualizing traditional and non-traditional security- Non-traditional security: Asian context- Theoretical basis of security studies: Realism, Liberalism and Social Constructivism- Theories of non-traditional security- Climate changes and climate migration- Smuggling of human being and irregular migration- Food security and societal Security- The Ethics of Securitization in Asia and Beyond- Coping with challenges: international security in a globalised world
Assessment	Formative Assessment	Weekly assessment and feedback
	Summative Assessment	Examination: None Coursework: 100% 2 Class tests (25% each) Individual Presentation (20%) 1 Individual written assignment (30%)		