

Module code	AZ-2303
Module Title	Social Psychology
Degree/Diploma	Bachelor of Arts (Sociology and Anthropology)
Type of Module	Major Option
Modular Credits	4	Total student workload	8 hours/week
		Contact hours	4 hours/week
Prerequisite	None
Anti-requisite	None
Aims To develop an understanding of the complexity of the relationship between individual and society- through the theoretical and empirical examination of concepts in which the social and the individual intersect, such as those of socialization and enculturation, individuality and identity, person and personality, and self and subjectivity.
Learning Outcomes: On successful completion of this module, a student will be expected to be able to:
Lower order :	30%	- Understand the basic concepts used in social psychology
Middle order :	40%	- Apply the concepts by relating them to the social behaviour of individuals and groups, taking into account particular sociocultural contexts
Higher order:	30%	- Critically analyse the reading material and relate them to their observations and experiences of social behaviour.
Module Content <ul style="list-style-type: none">- The self: its formation and its presentation- Diverse identities: gender, race, and ethnicity- Understanding the social world: social perception and social cognition- Stereotype, prejudice and discrimination- Evaluating the social world: attitudes and emotions- Interpersonal attraction and aggression- Pro-social and anti-social behaviour: altruism and egoism- Group dynamics: the individual and the consequences of belonging
Assessment	Formative assessment	Weekly discussion and feedback
	Summative assessment	Examination: 50% Coursework: 50% 2 Individual assignments (30%) 1 Group presentation (20%)	